1. Headings

Level 1: 1. BOLD AND ALL CAPS

Level 2: (a) Bold and Title Case

Level 3: (i) Italics and sentence case

Level 4: A. Sentence case

Headings “Introduction” and “Conclusion” should be numbered. If renumbering of any headings is required, please check the accuracy of any cross-references.

2. Abstract

Full length articles should include a concise abstract of about 200-500 words.

3. Punctuation

Serial comma (in body text; in footnotes, use “Mary Jones, John Smith & Alex Baker”)

Open em-dash:

text — other text

Periods and commas within closing quotation marks, colons and semicolons outside (in body text; in footnotes, follow the citation format)

Open ellipses:

“Quoted text ... continued quoted text.”

4. Abbreviations and short forms

No periods in abbreviations (in body text; in footnotes, follow the citation format)

Upon first use of an abbreviation for a word or phrase, spell out the full term and include the abbreviation or short form in parentheses:

financial technologies (fintech)

Upon first use of an acronym, spell out the full term and include the acronym in parentheses without quotation marks, and not bolded, not italicized:

Intelligent Robots Development and Distribution Promotion Act (IRDDPA)

Please note that the United States should be shortened to US (not USA).

5. Capitalization

Capitalize only names of people, organizations, programs, documents, etc., not concepts; do not use capitalization for emphasis

The spelled out version of an abbreviation does not need to be capitalized if it is not a proper noun:

machine learning (ML)

6. Numbers and dates

Spell out numbers under 10, use numerals for numbers 10 and up or if smaller numbers appear in a range with larger ones:

five-year plan

10 years

5 to 15 percent

Use the day-month-year format for dates, with no comma between month and year:

25 December 2017

Use “percent” where the number is written in full, otherwise, use the percent sign “%.”

five percent

15%

20%

7. Spelling

In general, prefer Canadian spellings for Canadian authors. For all other authors, correct Br./Can. spelling or American spelling is acceptable and ensure internal consistency within the article.

Please find some following examples:

-ize (e.g., summarize, centralize)

-mmed / -mming (e.g., programmed, programming)

-lled / -lling (e.g., modelled, modelling)

-our (e.g., behaviour, colour)

8. Quotations

Use double quotation marks (“”) in the first instance for quotations, and single quotation marks for quotations within quotations (‘’). Enclose punctuation marks (i.e., periods, commas, etc.) within the quotation marks:

An official known as a “referee.”

9. Citations

Format footnotes following the guidelines of the 8th edition of the Canadian Guide to Uniform Legal Citation (known as the McGill Guide), but with the use of periods within the citations as specified in the 6th edition. An online guide to legal citation is available at <<http://guides.library.ubc.ca/legalcitation>>. Below are some examples from this guide, formatted with the inclusion of periods as required in the Banking and Finance Law Review.

Biographical Note

Where the author’s name appears with the article title at the beginning of the document, insert a “*” footnote which includes their details, such as institution, position, and any other important information. Please include the author’s name at the beginning of the biographical note. For example:

[Article Title]

John Doe*

...

*John Doe, Professor, Faculty of Law, University of Manitoba, Canada.

Books

Bruce Ziff, Principles of Property Law, 5th ed. (Toronto: Carswell, 2010) at 148-155.

Articles

Cases

Please include at least two parallel citations, in the following order: the neutral citation where available, the Carswell reporter citation (available through Westlaw), followed by any other reporters in alphabetical order.

If access to Westlaw for the Carswell citation is unavailable, the Editorial Team will fill this citation in.

Previous references

Use “supra” and “ibid.” to refer to previous footnotes, rather than repeating the entire citation. Avoid using “infra” notes for subsequent footnotes. Instead, use the full citation on the first appearance of a source with a “supra” being used for repetitions. When referring to the source in the footnote immediately above, use “ibid.”; when referring to a source that is not immediately above, use “supra” with the note number:

Jones, supra note 5 at 50.

Ibid. at 53.

Wildfire Act, supra note 4, s. 2.

Ibid., s. 3.

Kerr v. Baranow, supra note 3 at para. 6.

Ibid. at para. 9.

Short forms

In general, it is not necessary to establish a short form when using the style of cause, legislation title, or author's surname in a subsequent reference. Establish short forms in square brackets only when needed to simplify or clarify citations involving previous references (i.e., when citing more than one case or statute with the same name, or when citing more than one work by the same author). Ensure the square brackets are roman, even if the short form is in italics. Use italics for short forms where the referenced material would ordinarily be formatted in italics (i.e., cases, legislation):

Callidus Capital Corp. v. Canada, 2018 SCC 47 [Callidus SCC].

Callidus Capital Corp. v. Canada, 2017 FCA 162 [Callidus FCA].

When to footnote

Sources should be cited in a footnote in the following circumstances (per the McGill Guide):

1. At the first reference to a source (full citation).
2. At every subsequent quotation from the source (using supra or ibid. to refer to the earlier citation).
3. At every subsequent reference or allusion to a particular passage in the source (using supra or ibid. to refer to the earlier citation).

Footnotes may also be used to provide additional information or references (for example, using "see also").

Do not forget the author's biographical note, discussed above.

Footnote callouts

Footnote callouts should be placed after closing punctuation:

"Quoted text."¹

In interpreting the Example Act,² the courts generally ...

The exception is when the text to which the footnote refers is enclosed in parentheses. In this case, the footnote callout should precede the closing parenthesis:

(Text to be cited.³)
